SLIGHT FIRES DO LITTLE DAMAGE; CHURCH AND HOTEL ARE THREATENED.

Overheated Furnace Causes Blaze in United Presbyterian Church This Morning.

THE YOUTH HOUSE ON FIRE.

Originated Beneath Stairs of the House but Discovered Before Gaining Any Headway—Confusion Over Church Fire This Morning.

Fire this morning damaged a considerable portion of the basement of the United Presbyterian Church on North Pittsburg street. But for a confusion in the alarm, the damage would have been considerably less. The blaze was first discovered by Miss Bertha Stevens, who conducts a kindergarten school in the basement of the building. When she arrived this morning but two children were on hand. Upon going into the church great volume of smoke were seen rolling up from the furnace room. Word was sent to the brewery and an alarm sounded, but neither the number of the nearest box or plug was known. The fire wagon was hitched up for fully 15 minutes before an inkling was gained as to the location of the fire. Those at the church were too much excited to telephone to the distillery and notify the fire department. Thomas McGuire of the brewery blew for box No. 124, which is located at the corner of Pittsburg and Peach streets, hoping in that way to get the firemen out in the direction of the church.

Once on the scene effective work was done and the fire extinguished. It began to eat through the floor into the auditorium of the edifice. The small organ downstairs was slightly damaged by water and the entire basement also sustained considerable damage from this source. The flames burst a good portion of the woodwork. The origin of the fire is believed from an overheated furnace. The loss, amounting to about $100, is fully covered by insurance.

Only the heavy carpet on the floor of the auditorium kept the flames from spreading to that part of the building. A good bit of the floor was burned through. In the absence of a fire marshal, Councilman William McCormick directed the fire fighters. The entire building was filled with smoke and this made the work of the firemen difficult.

Rev. J. J. Huston, pastor of the church, and the firemen of the fire department, were early on the scene and did able work. J. D. Stillwagon of the Connellsville Water Company was also on hand to give assistance. It required but a short time to extinguish the blaze.

A serious conflagration was narrowly averted at the Youth House Sunday morning at 6 o'clock. The blaze started beneath the steps leading to the second floor. The telephone booth and also the water cooler is located at this place, and it is supposed that some person went to the telephone booth and threw a lighted cigar back of it, which caused the fire several hours later.

Neddie Jones, the night watchman, had his hands full in the boiler room. Several of the pipes leading to the boiler were frozen up, and although he says he was absent but a few minutes, Proprietor James McGloin says he should have been there all the time. Mr. McGloin says it is a serious matter to have the water pipes frozen up at the house on fire. A guest of the house smelled the smoke and notified a day porter as he was coming on duty. A few buckets of water extinguished the fire, after a hole had been burned in the floor.

A Sledding Party.
The Bl-Town Outing Club will give a sledding party to Scottdale this evening.

NO HEARING

Was Held Sunday Morning at Police Court, There Being No Prisoners Locked Up Saturday Night.

There was no police court hearing Sunday morning. This is a remarkable incident, for as far back as the memory of man runs, there has been a "prison" the Sunday morning police court has always been heavy. Jags on Saturday night were few and far between for two reasons: One that the bars were all closed on account of the being primary election day, and the other because it was too cold for the jags to remain on the streets. This morning one man was in the coop, charged by B. & O. officers with trespass. He is an employee of the road and was taking a nap in a box car. He got the usual sentence from Burgess Solson.

MAKING RETURNS.

Election Officers Bring Papers to County Commissioners.
UNIONTOWN, Jan. 22.—Election of officials at once being made returns of the primary held Saturday afternoon and evening. Primary returns are made to the County Commissioners instead of the Prothonotary.

Indications are that a light vote was cast in the primary. With the exception of Connellsville there were few contests on, there being little incentive to bring the voters out.

THE PRIMARY.

Brownsville Township Only District Where New Law Was Not Given a Trial.

UNIONTOWN, Jan. 22.—The first primary under the new uniform election law passed very quietly in Fayette county Saturday. The polls were opened in all the 36 precincts by the regular election officers and indications are that a comparatively large vote was cast. Brownsville township was the only district in the county which failed to comply with the new law in filing nomination papers. In districts where there were no candidates the Commissioners, acting on the advice of their attorney, sent out blank ballots on which the names of candidates might be written. It is believed that when the voters here become accustomed to the new regulations the latter will prove generally satisfactory.

The hotel proprietors, brewers and distillers are entering a protest to the Commissioners, claiming that the law is not satisfactory. They do more business on Saturday than on any other day in the week and contend that it is unreasonable to ask them to close.

In many of the districts a vote was taken on the adoption of the new road tax system, thus putting the matter of road making and road repairing on a business basis. The practice of working out the taxes is not satisfactory, and the heavy hauling about the works puts them in an almost impossible condition in places. Great difficulty has been experienced in getting suitable men to stand for the nomination for Supervisor since the office carries with it no compensation. It is believed that under the new system taxation will be equalized, since the tax of the men who have been accustomed to work out their taxes is as far as that of his neighbor who pays for honest and effective work.

The prohibitionists of Fayette county have started to circulate papers in order to get 5,000 voters to pledge themselves against any candidate for judge in the November election this year who will not agree to refuse to issue liquor licenses. The pledge is not binding unless 5,000 voters are secured. A similar effort was made to get 5,000 to pledge themselves in 1901, but only 4,000 pledges were secured.

KEPT HIS EAR.

Vanderbilt Foreigner Carried Severed Member in Pocket, Hoping to Have it Replaced.

UNIONTOWN, Jan. 22.—Charles Goboda of Vanderbilt was brought to the county jail Sunday carrying an ear in his pocket. Charles kept the severed member hoping that he might have it placed in its proper position again, and appeared much disappointed when told that such a feat would be impossible.

With him was brought Charles Kozar, also of Vanderbilt, charged with mayhem. In a light near Vanderbilt late Saturday night, Kozar threw a jug at Goboda. The jug broke and a piece of it shaved Goboda's ear off. Both men were drunk. Goboda is charged with carrying concealed weapons.

Handsome Sum Raised.
As the result of an effort made Sunday morning by the pastor and members of the First Baptist Church to pay off the indebtedness of the church which amounted to $5,300, $2,300 was raised, leaving a balance due of $3,000.

Brockenbrough Resigns.
L. Rush Brockenbrough, for 10 years general freight agent of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, with headquarters in Pittsburg, has resigned and will leave the company February 1.

A Belated Santa Claus.

JOHN O. TODD DEAD.

Well Known Uniontown Man Expired This Morning.

John O. Todd, one of the oldest and most respected citizens of Uniontown, died this morning at his home, 112 West End street. He was born within a radius of two and a half miles of Uniontown, and was known as one of the Old Pike Boys because of the fact that his farm lay along the famous highway. When a young man he married Miss Elizabeth Springer, daughter of Shugart Springer. Mrs. Todd died in 1871, three sons living, Mrs. William Dutton, Mrs. George L. Craft and Mrs. B. H. Stewart and R. M. of Chicago, John H. of Uniontown and Springfield, Tenn.

Mr. Todd was a farmer all his life, and accounted one of the best in Fayette county. While the arrangements for the funeral have not yet been made it is likely that the services will be held in the Cumberland Presbyterian church.

GIRL HAD NERVE.

Shot at Burglars Who Were Trying to Break Into Uniontown Boarding House Sunday Night.

UNIONTOWN, Jan. 22.—Miss Olive Delaney, a bookkeeper employed by D. N. Craft, had an exciting experience with burglars Sunday night at the boarding house of Mrs. Julia Tate in Ben Leonard street. It was shortly after midnight that Miss Delaney heard sounds under her window. Listening for a while she became convinced that someone was trying to get into the house. Getting her revolver, she shot into the darkness. One man was soon running off to an alley nearby and Miss Delaney fired two more shots after him. The other man escaped in another direction.

The other inmates of the house were aroused by the shots but the marauders had escaped. The police are searching a couple of colored men who are suspected of being connected with several burglaries that have occurred here recently.

WOODMEN BANQUET.

They Had Most Enjoyable Time on Saturday Evening.

One of the most enjoyable and most helpful times in the history of the Modern Woodmen of America in Connellsville was the banquet given by the members of Camp No. 8679 in their lodge room on West Main street on Saturday night. The object of the gathering was to have a good time and to arouse the interests of the order in Connellsville.

The Woodmen and their wives, together with their guests, assembled in banquet hall at 8 o'clock and had a good social time until Catherine Baxter announced that the repast was ready. During the course of the banquet very interesting talks were given by E. R. Murphy of Pittsburg, Rev. W. V. Barnhart of Connellsville and Miss Bertha Seese of New Haven. A recitation by Mrs. Smith Grimm of New Haven was one of the most enjoyable numbers.

The history of the Order was read by the clerk and after social talks and chats with the guests for the next half hour, the members and their friends adjourned, with pleasant memories of the event.

Noon Weather Bulletin.
Fair and colder tonight is the noon weather bulletin.

ZERO WEATHER; SLEIGHING FINE.

Coldest Night and Day of the Year Was Yesterday.

MERCURY TEN DEGREES BELOW

Sleights and Speedy Horses Were Out in Force on Pittsburg Street Yesterday Afternoon and Evening and There Were Many Lively Brushies.

Saturday night and Sunday were the coldest of the season. Early on Sunday morning the thermometer fell below zero. At 3 o'clock it registered three degrees below in Connellsville and in the mountain districts there were many places where eight and ten degrees were reported. All day Sunday the mercury hovered not far above the zero mark, and this morning it is not much warmer. No snow falling was reported as a result of the cold. At the police station hobsies have been numerous seeking lodging and all of them have been taken in at night. The coke ovens are also being sought by knights of the road for their warmth. At noon today the weather had moderated considerably. Sunday afternoon was ideal for sleighing. The only drawback was the cold. Sleighs were out in force. Every one who had a nag that could travel some way out. There were some lively brushies. James McGloin, driving S. K. Reid's John Smith, had everything on the street faced up. D. F. Oliver came along with his pacing gelding Bluestone. In more than half a dozen brushies John Smith had to take snow from the heels of Bluestone. Later S. K. Reid took John Smith and cleaned up everything. Councilman William McCormick and W. H. Marjotta were in from in a number of cases from the north end of Pittsburg street to Brimstone Corner, the former driving his Kentucky horse and the latter driving the latter R. M., which was stable last summer at the Dawson track. J. O. Markie and Fred Harmoning were back of Slow Boy and ready for anything on runners at any time. All the heavy horses in town were in bells and big prices were offered for sleighs in vain. Many people drove in from the country and Scotland and Mt. Pleasant sent over a good delegation. The route between these two towns is said to be in excellent condition for sleighing. Several hundred were interested spectators in the racing on Pittsburg street during the afternoon.

There is 10 inches of snow in the mountains.

BUFFALO FIRE.

Walls Fall Bearing Twelve Men in the Ruins—Loss Will Reach About Half a Million.

Pittsburgh Press Telegram.
BUFFALO, Jan. 22.—Early this morning the Seneca building was wrecked by fire. At 3.50 o'clock two walls fell and hurled twelve men in the ruins. Four have been taken out alive, but badly injured. They were rushed to the hospitals. Firemen are supposed victims. The financial loss is about $500,000, fully insured.

DR. HUSTON HOME.

Greeted by Large Audience on Sunday Morning at U. P. Church.

Dr. J. J. Huston returned home Saturday afternoon from Belle Center, O., where he had been engaged in the work of the minister. For the past two weeks he was assisting the pastor in evangelistic meetings. Four of the congregations were holding services every evening with a union meeting every afternoon. Over seventy-five had united with the congregations before Rev. Huston left and the meetings were still in progress. Dr. Huston was greeted by good audiences at the morning and evening services yesterday at the United Presbyterian Church. In the morning he spoke on "The Willingness of Christ to Save and His Ability to Save's Soul." Last night his address was on "The Binding of the Holy Spirit." The singing was excellent, and the solo by Miss Christina Sneddon was appreciated by every one present.

RAID JOINT.

Officers Haul in Abraham Beading, Who Operated a Boat on the Monongahela River.

UNIONTOWN, Jan. 22.—County Detective Alex McBeth, Deputy Sheriff S. B. Decker, Constable Milton Morris and Officer Thomas Phelan of Ft. Marion made a raid on the Monongahela river Sunday afternoon and landed Abraham Beading, who is alleged to have conducted a gambling joint in a boat on the Monongahela river. Beading, it is said, confined his operations to the Greene county side, but the Fayette officers claim to have jurisdiction.

Beading was arrested on a warrant sworn out by Justice Frankenberg of Ft. Marion. He has pleaded his intention, the officers say, of pleading guilty.

LIVELY TILT

Between President and Foraker at Grand Dinner Saturday Night.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—There was a fly in the ointment of merriment at the annual dinner given Saturday night by the Griffin Club. The now noted Brownsville case which involved the dismissal of negro troops, was debated for over an hour. The attitude of the President was defined by no less a personage than President Roosevelt himself.

The remarks of Senator Foraker, which followed, unexpectedly laid the basis for a vigorous rejoinder by the President. The club members and the guests became so greatly interested in the unlooked-for accident that the dinner grew cold.

Accurate of occurrence, the one story is that the President of the club, innocent of what was to come, mildly suggested that a few words from Senator Foraker might not be out of place.

The Ohio Senator, in declaring that he was not responsible for his official conduct to the Executive, remarked that he might better characterize the remarks of the speaker who had preceded him as Tom Reed had those of a former Executive. "That man seems to labor under the belief that he has just discovered the Ten Commandments." His defense was earnest. He had hardly taken his seat when the President arose and spoke for a good half hour.

It had all been so absorbing that when President Roosevelt sat down the hour for adjournment had come without the other vantage having been laid before the distinguished assembly.

DESERTION CHARGE.

John W. Richards Committed to Jail by Squire W. P. Clark on Complaint of His Wife.

A hearing was given this morning to John W. Richards before Squire W. P. Clark. Richards is charged with desertion and non-support by his wife, Eliza J. Richards. Information was made before Squire Clark last week by Mrs. Richards, who since has been admitted to the County Home. Richards was picked up in town Saturday afternoon by Constable Joseph Crossland.

He is alleged to have deserted his wife and three small children 18 months ago and since that time served three months in the Westmoreland county jail as a result of trouble over a girl at West Newton. He was held for court.

Mrs. Richards and one child are staying at the County Home, while two other children have been taken in charge by the Children's Aid Society of Uniontown.

GETS CONTRACT.

William McCormick Will Do Grading and Excavating for the New Masonic Building.

The contract for grading and excavating for the new Masonic building on South Pittsburg street has been let to Councilman William McCormick. This was done after the Building Committee of the Connellsville Masonic Association examined all bids submitted.

This work will be commenced as soon as the weather will permit. The contract is a big one, for there is a good bit of rock in the earth which must be taken out. The dirt will be hauled to the hollow spanned by the bridge leading to the Hogg addition.

HORSE KICKED.

Loose Holding Back Strap Caused Frantic Antics.

Much excitement was raised on Pittsburg street Sunday evening near the Pennsylvania railroad when the horse driven by Monroe Marletta began some fancy capers. The holding back strap got loose and caused the sleigh to run up on the railroad tracks.

The horse began to kick and for a time threatened to smash the vehicle. It was finally quieted and the only damage done was to the harness.

MAY M'KENZIE BACK IN COURT.

Indignantly Denies That She Has Been the Cause of Any Friction Between Thaw and Evelyn Nesbit Thaw. The Latter Breaking Down.

Pittsburgh Press Telegram.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—It is stated this morning that Mrs. Wm. Thaw is prepared to go on the witness stand and lay bare the innermost secrets of the Thaw family to save her son from the electric chair. Her testimony, it is said, will be convincing proof that evidences of insanity have manifested themselves in Harry on several occasions for years. The aged mother and proud head of the Thaw house will tell the family history which, it is said, will bring to light evidence of insanity in one branch of the Thaw family. Thaw's plea will be temporary insanity.

Miss May MacKenzie, the chorus girl associate of Mrs. Evelyn Thaw, was again with the Thaw family in court today. She indignantly denied that there was any difference in the Thaw household concerning her. She states that Evelyn Nesbit Thaw is nearing a state of collapse. She is under a physician's care and is attending court contrary to his explicit orders. Young Mrs. Thaw plainly shows the strain she is under. Her expression is dull and lifeless. The presence of the Countess of Yarnmouth yesterday made the party again complete. There is evidence also that Harry Thaw is laboring under mental stress. He glanced at the faces of his mother and wife as he hurried to his seat and plunged into an earnest and long consultation with his counsel this morning.

A new panel of 100 talismen has been drawn for the Thaw trial. At noon Charles Newton, a retired business man, was accepted as the eighth juror and court adjourned until 2 o'clock.

HEARING TONIGHT.

Uniontown Principal Will Fight Serious Charges at Meeting of School Board.

UNIONTOWN, Jan. 22.—Principal J. P. Johnston of the Uniontown schools will be given a hearing this evening by the School Board to answer several serious charges that have been made against him. Much interest centers in the case here. Both Johnston and the School Board have employed legal counsel and a hard fight will be made by the pedagogues to defend his name.

It is understood that several women are mixed up in the case. It was thought that Johnston would resign today but he has announced his intention of fighting to a finish.

MINE DISASTER.

Two Hundred and Fifty Men Perish in Explosion in German Coal Mine This Morning.

Pittsburgh Press Telegram.
BERLIN, Jan. 22.—In an explosion today in Rhedara mine, near Essen, it is feared 250 lives are lost. One hundred and sixty-five mutilated bodies have already been lifted from the shaft and 110 men are still in the mine. It is feared all perished. Twenty-five being, but horribly torn and bruised, have been rescued. Several of these will die. Scenes near the mine shaft beggar description. A great throng of women, children and relatives of the victims has collected.

PROFANE FOREIGNERS

From Revere Fined Five Dollars Each for Swearing in a West Penn Car.

As a result of being disorderly and using profane language on a Revere street car on the Lehigh branch, Mike Kolsaki, Mike Karli, John Corbit, Mike Coshick and Andy Berko, all of Revere, were given a hearing this morning before Squire Jacob Korman of New Haven and fined $5 each and costs.

The information was made by Constable Frank McLaughlin, special officer for the West Penn Railway Company. The defendants were arrested Friday evening by Constable McLaughlin.

FOUND IN CLEVELAND.

Bertha Beilstein Said to Be Inmate of Hospital in Forest City.

MOTHER OF BOUNCING BABY

Escape of Girl Inmate of Dixmont Fined, Sequestered in Remarkable Story from Cleveland, Which, as Yet, Has Not Been Confirmed.

Cleveland, Jan. 22.—There is but little doubt that Bertha Beilstein is in Cleveland. There is less doubt that the Dixmont asylum authorities, or at least one of its members, is acquainted with that fact. A director of the institution came here Saturday. He left last evening. He was here Thursday. He was here earlier in the week, according to reliable reports. When seen by your correspondent he stated that he came here to visit a married daughter.

Whether or not he is also making inquiries regarding Bertha, or her whereabouts, could not be ascertained from the married daughter because the married daughter could not be located at the given address.

Assisted by H. H. Perkins of the Perkins Detective Agency of Pittsburgh and Jacob Mintz, of the Mintz Agency of this city a correspondent visited a woman answering the description of Bertha Beilstein, who is ill in the Huron hospital. She is registered as Emma Anderson and Sunday morning became the mother of a bouncing baby boy. The girl was penniless when received, but she has a private room at the institution and is receiving special care. She applied for admittance to the Maternity hospital but was refused. She was refused when she applied at the Huron hospital, but upon the earnest solicitation of a Dr. Bishop of this city was finally admitted to the institution and first given a private room on the first floor and later removed to the second floor.

Girl Acts Suspiciously. She is apparently 24 years old. She discloses ever having been out of Cleveland, but can name no relatives here. She has a rather apparent German accent, but maintains utter ignorance of everything but the fact that she was born in Cleveland. She declares that she does not remember the name of the people she lived with last.

It must be confessed that in some important particulars she does not agree with the generally accepted description of the missing murderer. She resembles the description in the fact that she is tall and slender, and wears a wealth of rather reddish blonde hair.

There are two families bearing the name of Beilstein in this city. One is that of which Fred B. Beilstein, an undertaker at 3311 Prospect street, is a member. Another is that of Julius Beilstein, a tailor, at 2020 Center avenue. When asked regarding Bertha, Julius Beilstein replied: "Ask Fred, he'll know if anyone does."

Bertha Beilstein visited here at the home of Fred Beilstein about 12 years ago. Fred Beilstein was not inclined to discuss the probable whereabouts of Bertha. Under pressure he declared he didn't know. His sister, Myrtle Beilstein, was seen and to all inquiries hesitatingly replied: "You'd better ask Fred about that," but Fred maintains a blissful ignorance.

Apartment is Empty. There is a persistent report that Bertha Beilstein has occupied quarters in Prospect street here for sometime under a certain name prefixed by "Mrs."

Earnest and repeated inquiries failed to find "Mrs. ——" at her home. The apartment is closed and neighbors know little about the absent woman. It is said in the neighborhood that she had few callers—only one that is uniformly recalled.

The fact that a Pittsburgh newspaper is searching for the missing matricide and has been doing so at a great expense since the asylum authorities have demonstrated no interest in the matter, became known here through an unknown source. Cleveland has become much agitated over the affair, and at midnight, even the police had received an inkling of the news and were showing signs of life.

BUSY COUNTING PAY

Operator Forgets Men in the Mill and Two Are Crushed.

Stouffville, O., Jan. 22.—Eugene Robinson and Oscar Carlson, machinists, were caught under a manipulator in the Bloomington mill, at Mingo Junction, and Robinson will die from being crushed about the body. Carlson had his arm broken and was badly bruised.

When the men went to work under the manipulator it was idle and the operator went to get his pay. On his return the operator, forgetting about them while counting his money, let the manipulator down on them.

Murder in Detroit Saloon. Detroit, Jan. 22.—Alton Cameron, age 33, brother-in-law of Judge William F. Connelley of the recorder's court, was shot and instantly killed in a saloon by Joseph Schulte, the bartender. Schulte fired the cash register and escaped.

Humorist Ada's Mother Dead. Kentland, Ind., Jan. 22.—Mrs. John Ada, mother of George, the humorist, is dead at her home here of heart failure.

From Westmoreland's County Seat.

GREENSBURG, Jan. 22.—Republicans in both the Moore and Arnold motions say that the account of trouble at the Saturday primaries at Arnold, in a Pittsburgh Democratic newspaper, are grossly misrepresented. There was some trouble over challenges and other details, as there always is at Arnold, but no arrests were made and no information will follow, so far as can be learned. County officials of the Republican party are glad that the introduction of the new law had such a quieting effect at Arnold, and hope for still better results in the future. They hope that the uniform primaries law will bring Arnold to her senses and put a stop to the disgraceful manifestations that have obtained there in the past.

Arrangements have been completed for a six-round go between "Mike" Gannon, an Irish lad of South Greensburg, and Bert Ackerman, Latrobe's boxer. It has not yet been definitely decided whether the contest will come off in Latrobe or Greensburg, but the men will box six rounds for a decision and will weigh in at 135 pounds. Robert Baldwin, formerly of New York, who has come on here with the Kelly & Jones company, is training Gannon. Last week he had him at the Pittsburgh Lyceum gymnasium, where he had a demonstration of his act and steam. Pittsburgh athletes say he shows much promise. After he meets Ackerman he is willing to meet any man in his class in Westmoreland and Fayette counties. Gannon and his manager go in for real sport and wish it distinctly understood that they are not professional prize fight promoters.

Alex. J. Lawson, President of the Western Pennsylvania baseball league, will be here this week to complete arrangements for a park in Greensburg and other details for the opening of the league season. He announces that he has signed several new men for the Greensburg team within the past week, and promises one of the fastest teams of the league here. Whether or not Lawson will be able to secure the Elk's park here is not yet known. In case he fails in an agreement with the Elk's, it is understood that a new park will be built along the line of the West Penn railway, within an easy ride of town. Local fans are greatly enthused over the prospect for a good team this season, and think if Greensburg gets a winning aggregation the success of the league here is assured.

Greensburg jail prisoners heard a sermon Sunday afternoon. A former first jail chaplain ever employed by the county. He is Chaplain J. H. Pershing, and his salary is $5 per week. In addition to holding Sunday services he will generally look after the jail's physical welfare.

THEATRICAL.

Plays Booked for the Colonial Theatre in Near Future.

The management of the Colonial Theatre takes pleasure in announcing that "The Land of Promise" a dainty charming operetta by Lawrence Roberger Hext and J. Edwin Owen, is booked to appear with the original New York cast and company tomorrow evening. This play has received the most flattering praises from press and public and has met with loud and hearty applause along its journey in life. It should not be confused with the hundreds of rehearsed and poorly written plays that are this season being thrust upon a long-suffering public, for "The Land of Promise" is a brand new, original unique opera in a class at the top of the list. The lines are delightfully clean and witty. The musical numbers are gems of melody, the costumes are creations of magnificence, and the scenes are beautiful and inspiring. In fact, there is nothing else just like "The Land of Promise." The cast contains five comedians of far-reaching fame, and the company includes artists of universal merit, as well as a chorus of singers unsurpassed.

Rufus Rastus. A regular Sambo, Quimbo, Dinah aggregation of colored talent headed by Ernest Hogan, who calls himself the un-bled American is booked for the Colonial Theatre Wednesday, January 30. Hogan is a comparatively new star in the colored dramatic firmament and was discovered by Hurling & Scamman of New York, who have furnished him with a vehicle entitled "Rufus Rastus." They have also supplied him with a first-class scenic equipment and surrounded him with a company of sixty expert men and maidens, said to be of the highest entertainers in the style of show which the descendants of Ethiopia have become famous for the world over. Nothing but fun is said to be the motto of the Ernest Hogan "Rufus Rastus" organization.

FARMERS TO GATHER.

There Will Be Lively Two Days Session at Scottdale.

NARROW ESCAPE OF SLEIGHERS.

Connellsville Couple Struck by Street Car on Saturday Night, But Got Off With Slight Bruises—Local and Personal of the Mill Town.

SCOTSDALE, Jan. 27.—A two days' farmers' institute will be held in the Baptist Church here commencing this afternoon and ending tomorrow night. The session this afternoon will open at 1:30 o'clock. Among the speakers will be G. B. Waychoff of the Agricultural Department at Washington, D. C., and J. B. Burns. One of the topics of the latter will be "The Farmer and His Wife." Many subjects of vital interest to the farmer will be talked over. A large attendance is expected. The evening sessions will commence at 7:30 o'clock. Ed. Werkman and A. J. Porter are the local committee.

Something new to Scottdale was observed on Sunday afternoon in the memorial services held at the First Methodist Episcopal Church, and at a time when Scottdale has been called upon several times this week to give up its people. The memorial exercises at the First Methodist Episcopal Church, Rev. William C. Weaver, pastor, held at 2:30, were in remembrance of two departed from that congregation, Mrs. Annie Robson Rutherford, aged 66, and James Perry Beatty, aged 23. During the exercises the pastor referred to the death of another member of the congregation, Mrs. Charles Lewellyn, and after the last hymn was sung the singing was announced that Miss Jennie McClure, a former member of the Sunday school and Epworth League, had died at Elizabeth. Something entirely new and interesting were the printed programs, two of which were distributed, one of them bearing the portrait of Mrs. Rutherford, and the other of Mr. Beatty, and each having a complete biographical sketch. The program was as follows: Singing by the choir, and Scripture lesson and prayer by the pastor. There was an address by Mrs. Wooster, President of the Epworth League, and the reading of a biography and testimonial of Mrs. Rutherford by Miss Jessie Dingler. This was followed by the singing of the hymn, "Abide With Me," and an address by Dr. James P. Strickler, Superintendent of the Sunday school, and the biography and testimonial of James P. Beatty by Arthur G. Trimble, remarks by the pastor and the solo, "While the Days Are Going By," sung by Miss Lida Barker.

Stock taking of H. & J. Kurtz's dry goods begins this morning. Watch for the great sale.

Mrs. Sarah Webb died at her home in Scottdale during Saturday night, from the infirmities of old age, aged 86 years. She was the widow of John Webb, a well known citizen, dead for several years, and had resided in this community for a quarter of a century. She is survived by several children, among them Joseph J. Webb, Elijah Webb, Mrs. J. W. Lightbecker and S. W. Webb of Scottdale, and Mrs. Laura Bwing and John Webb of Los Angeles, Cal., and Mrs. Sarah Gross of Denver, Col.

What might have been a street car fatality occurred on Saturday night, when Charles Stauffer and Miss Katie Keefe of Connellsville were driving along Broadway in a sleigh near Loucks lane, and were struck by an Old Meadow car, the sleigh upset and the occupants thrown out. The man had his head cut and the woman her hand cut. Both were treated by a doctor and returned to Connellsville on the last car, leaving the horse and sleigh at May's livery stable.

The good sized audience that gathered at the Y. M. C. A. at 8 o'clock Sunday afternoon listened to an inspiring, thoughtful and well presented address by former District Attorney Jesse E. B. Cunningham of Greensburg, who described "The Trial of Jesus from a Lawyer's Standpoint."

A great array of his old friends from all the town wended their way to the First Presbyterian Church, Sunday morning and evening, to hear two sermons by Prof. P. N. Osborne, formerly Principal of the Scottdale schools, and now a senior in the Western Theological Seminary, Allegheny. The speaker has in him the qualities that go to make an admirable and effective minister as well as teacher, sympathy, knowledge, tact, and the grace of mixing with all manner of people, so that he should make a power in the church work.

There has been no mistaking the fact that winter, real winter, has arrived, in the last couple of days. Sunday night the mercury fell down the tube to zero at 10 o'clock, and then it went to five degrees lower, the total drop from afternoon until Sunday morning being 15 degrees, and one felt as if he ought to, in the interests of economy, get a bucket under the thermometer to catch the mercury when it would fall out at the bottom of the tube and keep it from going clear to waste. There were a good many sleighs out on Sunday afternoon and the country roads were reported pretty good, and probably were because a lot of sleds were flying about.

J. C. Rockwell's "Sunny South" company showed at Geyer's Opera House Saturday night. They paraded on the streets Saturday and found that the weather was anything but a southern variety. D. G. Anderson, the lead to Dawson for Monday night's show. This was on account of the superb railway service of the R. & O. out of Mt. Pleasant. The company travelled by the trolley line.

Early Sunday morning a little rain, but was making the soft, light snow fly as it came inquiringly along Chestnut street, stopping at the different streets and alleys. Then it met some one at Loucks avenue and then turned and fled out Chestnut street, again. Dogs have been so diminished in number in Scottdale that now a rabbit can go out promiscuously safely if it meets no cat. Someone ought to slaughter the felines, too.

SWETTENHAM RESIGNS

Governor of Jamaica Finds Situation There Too Much for Him.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Jan. 25.—It is understood that Gov. Swettenham has tendered his resignation to Lord Elgin, secretary for the colonies, a few days ago in consequence of the Admiral Davis incident, and his inability to solve the problem created by the esquipage. On Saturday the governor visited the temporary offices of the municipal council and informed the vice chairman that the government had decided to relieve the people of Kingston from all rates and taxes for a period of 15 months, beginning the first of January. This announcement has been received with gratification by the residents of the city who will be encouraged to start the work of rebuilding as early as possible.

The Most Rev. Ernos Nuttall, archbishop of the West Indies, in an interview, said that the municipal council was unable to deal with the present extraordinary emergency and should be abolished and one commissioner with full powers should be appointed to govern the city during the period of reconstruction. He also declared that in addition to the generous contributions from the United States, Canada and elsewhere it was absolutely necessary to obtain an Imperial grant and a large Imperial loan to rebuild Kingston.

Much-Wanted Bandit Captured.

Party Leaders Prepare Resolution Providing for Capitol Inquiry.

WILL NOT PERMIT AMENDMENT

Although Some Shrewd Members Would Like to Order That No More Payments Be Made on Capitol Contracts Until After Investigation.

Harrisburg, Jan. 23.—The numerous resolutions for an investigation of the contracts for furnishing and equipping the new state capitol will be side-tracked in the legislature this week by the adoption of a resolution formulated by the senate and house leaders after consultation with Gov. Stuart. This resolution, which will be offered in both bodies tonight, creates a committee of three senators and four representatives, two of whom shall be members of the minority party, to conduct the proposed investigation.

The resolution also gives the governor power to appoint special counsel and auditors to assist the committee and will probably contain a provision that the investigation shall be completed before the close of the present legislative session. The Democrats of the house are expected to offer an amendment which shall give State Treasurer Berry authority to withhold payment of the Huston and Sanderson bills until the committee has made its report.

The Republican majority, however, is opposed to this proposition, though why it is difficult to understand, and the prospects are that the amendment will be rejected and the resolution adopted and signed by the governor in the form in which it is drafted by the leaders.

The Illinois resolution creating a legislative committee to investigate the cost of living in Pennsylvania and report to the present legislature, which has passed the senate, will be taken up for consideration by the house tonight. It is reported that a resolution will be offered in the senate by Mr. Murphy of Philadelphia to investigate the alleged activity of the Philadelphia police in politics.

The campaign for the passage of a law providing for local option throughout Pennsylvania will open in the house tonight with the introduction of a bill framed by the Anti-Saloon League. Petitions asking for the passage of the bill, which is similar to that which failed in 1905, have already been presented in senate and house.

A bill increasing the pay of senators and representatives from $1,500 to $3,000 a session will be introduced by Mr. Roberts of Montgomery in the senate. Several members from the interior counties have already declared against any change in the salaries of legislators and it is conceded that the Roberts bill will have hard sailing in both houses. It is probable a bill will also be offered to add 10 per cent to the pay of all state employees whose salaries are less than $2,000 a year.

The bills creating two additional common pleas courts in Allegheny county are on the senate calendar for third reading and will probably be called for consideration tonight. Among the bills on the senate calendar for second reading are those providing for an additional orphan's court judge in Philadelphia and authorizing the removal of the Eastern penitentiary.

LITTLE TOTS BRANDED

Stepmother Burns Them for Making Noise at Their Play.

New York, Jan. 23.—Two little tots, Nellie, age 7, and Jennie, two years younger, told Magistrate House in the Harlem police court how their stepmother, Mrs. Kate Gravit, had branded them with a red-hot stove lifter when in play they had made too much noise. Twice during the recital the prisoner, a woman of intelligent and pleasing appearance, not more than 20 years of age, fainted. When restored the woman admitted that she had branded the children but said that at the time she was possessed by an unaccountable mania.

The two girls, she said, had been playing with their dolls until the noise and confusion robbed her of her reason and left a restless impulse to punish the little ones. Seizing the stove lifter she pressed the glowing end upon the back of the right hand of each child, causing scars that the little ones will carry to the ends of their lives.

Must Care for Small Shippers. Columbus, O., Jan. 23.—The State Railway commission has rendered a decision in the case of C. Heretofore the "wagon" miners have been overlooked in the distribution of cars except to handle their product in box cars.

SCEPTICAL PEOPLE.

Who Question the Authenticity of Vinol Testimonials Should Read the Following.

Last evening we published a letter from the Rev. Geo. W. Ruland, Keene, N. H., in which he stated that he did not believe there was any other medicine which could equal the health-restoring and strength-creating properties of the cod liver oil preparation, Vinol, as it had done for him more than was claimed for it.

The authenticity of this statement was evidently doubted by a resident of New Haven, Conn., as the following correspondence would indicate:

Rev. Geo. W. Ruland, Dear Sir: Will you kindly inform me if the enclosed Vinol testimonial from you is genuine, and greatly obliged. Yours respectfully, E. L. Austin, 250 Orchard St., New Haven, Conn.

Mr. E. L. Austin, Dear Sir: Replying to your courteous inquiry, I take pleasure in saying, Yes, the testimonial is genuine, and I would add more emphatic words to express my confidence in Vinol as a blood and nerve tonic and a safe restorative. Yours respectfully, Geo. W. Ruland.

Our local druggist, F. E. Markell, says: "Vinol is simply the medicinal elements of cod liver oil in a concentrated form, the useless oil eliminated and tonic iron added, and it falls to create strength and health for run-down, debilitated people, old people, weak, sickly women and children, nursing mothers, and after a severe sickness, or if it fails to cure a hacking cough, chronic cold, throat or bronchial trouble we will return every cent paid for it." F. E. Markell, druggist.

Note.—While we are sole agents for Vinol in Connellsville, it is now for sale at the leading drug store in nearly every town and city in the country. Look for the Vinol agency in your town.

GUARANTEED STOMACH REMEDY.

A. A. Clarke Will Refund Money if M-ona Fails to Cure.

You may ask why A. A. Clarke is able to guarantee to refund the money unless M-ona Stomach Tablets cure when no other remedy for stomach troubles is sold in this manner.

The reason for this is that ordinary dyspepsia tablets merely digest the food, while M-ona builds up and strengthens the digestive system so that it soon begins to digest the food itself without pain or distress.

If the stomach is only given a rest by using a digestive, the stomach soon becomes weak, and it is necessary to continue taking a digestive tablet after every meal. On the other hand M-ona, used before eating, strengthens the stomach so that you will soon be well enough to give up the use of medicine.

M-ona costs but 50c a box, and makes positive and complete cures. The best proof of its merits is the guarantee to refund the money if it does not cure that A. A. Clarke gives with every box.

A Lazy Liver

May be only a tired liver, or a starved liver. It would be a stupid as well as a savage thing to beat a weary or starved man because he lagged in his work. So in tending the lagging, torpid liver it is a great mistake to lash it with strong drastic drugs. A torpid liver is but an indication of an ill-nourished, overworked body whose organs are weary with overwork. Start with the stomach and allied organs of digestion and nutrition. Put them in working order and soon how quickly your liver will become active.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has made many marvelous cures of "liver trouble" by its wonderful control of the organs of digestion and nutrition. It restores the normal activity of the stomach, increases the secretions of the blood-making glands, cleanses the system from poisonous accumulations, and so relieves the liver of the burdens imposed upon it by the deflection of other organs.

If you have bitter or bad taste in the morning, poor or variable appetite, coated tongue, foul breath, constipation or irregular bowels, feel weak, easily tired, dependent, frequent headache, pain or distress, "small of back," gnawing or distressed feeling in stomach, perhaps nausea, or "biliousness," or "rashes" in throat after eating, or indigestion, or frequent weak stomach and torpid liver, no medicine will relieve you more promptly or more completely than Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It has done only a part of the above symptoms will be present as one time and yet point to torpid liver or biliousness and weak stomach. Avoid all hot bread and biscuits, griddle cakes and other indigestible food and take the "Golden Medical Discovery" regularly and stick to its use until you are vigorous and strong.

The "Discovery" is non-secret, non-alcoholic, is a greener extract of native medicinal plants with a full list of its ingredients printed on each bottle wrapper and attested under oath. Its ingredients are endorsed by the most eminent medical writers of the age and are recommended to cure the diseases for which it is advised.

Don't accept a cheap or unknown composition for this non-secret medicine of known composition.

THE Masquerader

By KATHERINE CECIL THURSTON.
Author of "The Circle," Etc.

Copyright, 1905-1906, by Harper & Brothers

It was upon this same incomplete and yet tenacious chain that his mind worked as he traversed the familiar streets and at last gained the house he had so easily learned to call home.

As he inserted the key and felt it move smoothly in the lock a momentary revolt against his own judgment toward reaction, but it is only the blind who can walk without a tremor on the edge of an abyss, and there was no longer a bandage across his eyes. The reaction flared up like a strip of lighted paper, then, like a strip of lighted paper, it dropped back to ashes. He pushed the door open and slowly crossed the hall.

The mounting of a staircase is often the index to a man's state of mind. As Loder ascended the stairs of Chilcote's house his shoulders lacked their stiffness, his head was no longer erect. He moved as though his feet were weighted. He had ceased to be the man of achievement whose smallest opinion compels consideration. In the privacy of solitude he was the mere human form to which he had once compared himself—the dotman that, dreaming it has found a harbor, wakes to find itself the prey of the incoming tide.

He paused at the head of the stairs to rally his resolutions. Then, still walking heavily, he passed down the corridor to Eve's room. It was suggestive of his character that, having made his decision, he did not dally over its performance. Without waiting to knock, he turned the handle and walked into the room.

It looked precisely as it always looked, but to Loder the rich, subdued coloring of books and flowers—the whole air of culture and repose that the place conveyed—seemed to hold a deeper meaning than before, and it was on the instant that his eyes, crossing the intimate objects, rested on their owner that the true force of his position, the enormity of the task before him, made itself plain. Realization came to him with vivid, overwhelming force, and it must be accounted to his credit in the summing of his qualities that then, in that moment of trial, the thought of retreat, the thought of yielding, did not present itself.

Eve was standing by the mantelpiece. She wore a beautiful gown, a long string of diamonds, and a black hair was coiled high after a foreign fashion and held in place by a large diamond comb. As he entered she turned hastily, almost nervously, and looked at him with the rapid, searching glance he had learned to expect from her. Then almost directly her expression changed to one of quick concern. With a faint exclamation of alarm she stepped forward.

"What has happened?" she said. "You look like a ghost."

Loder made no answer. Moving into the room he glanced by the clock table that stood between the fireplace and the door. They made an unconscious tableau as they stood there—he with his hand set face, she with her heightened color or her inexplicably bright eyes. They stood completely silent for a space, a space that for Loder held no suggestion of time. Then, finding the tension unbearable, Eve spoke again.

"Has anything happened?" she asked. "Is anything wrong?"

And he been less engrossed the intensity of her question might have struck him but in a mind so harassed as his there was only room for one consideration—the consideration of himself. The sense of her question reached him, but its significance left him untouched.

"Is anything wrong?" she reiterated for the second time.

By an effort he raised his eyes. No man, he thought, since the beginning of the world was ever set a task so cruel as his. Painfully and slowly his lips parted.

"Everything in the world is wrong," he said in a low, hoarse voice.

Eve said nothing, but her color suddenly deepened.

Again Loder was unobservant, and with the dogged resolution that marked him he forced himself to his task.

"Tell me what you would think of a man whose whole life was one elaborate lie." The words were slightly exaggerated but their utterance, their painfully brusque sincerity, precluded all suggestion of effect. Resolutely looking her gaze, he repeated his question.

"Tell me! Answer me! I want to know!"

Eve's attitude was difficult to read. She stood twisting the string of diamonds between her fingers.

think such a thing could exist?" He spoke with difficulty. His brain and tongue both felt numb.

Eve let the diamond chain slip from her fingers. "Yes," she said nervously. "Yes I do believe it. Such things have been."

Loder caught at the words "You're quite right," he said quickly. "You're quite right. The thing is possible. I've proved it. I know a man so like me that you, even you, could not tell us apart."

Eve was silent, still averting her face.

In dire difficulty he labored on. "Eve," he began once more, "such a likeness is a serious thing—a terrible danger, a terrible temptation. Those who have no experience of it cannot possibly gauge its pitfalls." Again he paused, but again the silent figure by the fireplace gave him no help.

"There's no need to say anything," she said simply.

"Eve," he exclaimed suddenly, "if you only knew, if you only guessed what I'm trying to say!"—the perplexity, the whole harassed suffering of his mind showed in the words. Loder the strong, the resourceful the self-controlled, was painfully and fully at a loss. There was almost a note of appeal in the vibration of his voice.

And Eve standing by the fireplace, heard and understood. In that moment of comprehension all that had held her silent, all the conflicting motives that had forbidden speech, melted away before the unconscious demand for help. Quietly and yet quickly she turned, her whole face transfigured by a light that seemed to shine from within—something singularly soft and tender.

"There's no need to say anything," she said simply, "because I know."

It came quickly, as most great revelations come. Her voice was low and free from any excitement her face beautiful in its complete unconsciousness of self. In that supreme moment all her thought all her sympathy was for the man—and his suffering.

To Loder there was a sense of incredulity, the his brain slowly swung to realization. "You know?" he repeated blankly. "You know?"

Without answering, she walked to a cabinet that stood in the window, unlocked a drawer and drew out several sheets of filmy white paper, crumpled in places and closely covered with writing. Without a word she carried them back and held them out.

He took them in silence, scanned them, then looked up.

In a long, wordless pause their eyes met. It was as if each looked speechlessly into the other's heart, seeing the passions, the contradictions, the short comings, that went to the making of both. In that silence they drew closer together than they could have done through a word of words. There was no asking of forgiveness, no elaborate confession, on either side. In the deep eloquent pause they mutually saw and mutually understood.

"When I came into the morning room today," Eve said at last, "and saw Lillian Astripp reading that telegram nothing could have seemed farther from me than the thought that I should follow her example. It was not until afterward—not until he came into the room—until I saw that you, as I believed, had fallen back again from what I respected to what I despised—that I knew how human I really was."

As I watched them laugh and talk I felt suddenly that I was alone again—terribly alone. I—I think—I believe I was jealous in that moment!" She hesitated.

"But she broke in quickly on the word. "I felt different in that moment. I didn't care about honor or things like honor. After they had gone it seemed to me that I had missed something—something that they possessed. Oh, you don't know what a woman feels when she is jealous. And she paused. "It was then that the telegram and the thought of Lillian's amused smile as she had read it came to my mind. Feeling as I did—feeling as what I felt—I crossed to the bureau and picked it up. In one second I had seen enough to make it impossible to draw back. Oh, I may have been dishonorable, it may have been mean but I wonder if any woman in the world would have done otherwise. I rummaged up the papers just as they were and carried them to my own room."

From the first to the last word of Eve's story Loder's eyes were left her face. Instantly she had finished his voice broke forth in impetuous question. In that wonderful space of time he had learned many things. All his deductions, all his apprehensions had been scattered and disproved. He had seen the true meaning of Lillian Astripp's amused indifference—the difference of a variable (flippant) as to that, robbed of any real weapon for mischief, soon there of a game that promises to be too arduous. He saw all this and understood it with a rapidly born of the moment, nevertheless when Eve ceased to speak the question that broke from him was not connected with this great discovery—was not even suggestive of it. It was something quite immaterial to any real issue, but something that overshadowed every consideration in the world.

"Eve," he said, "tell me your first thought—your first thought after the shock and the surprise—when you remembered me?"

There was a fresh pause, but one of very short duration, then Eve met his glance fearlessly and frankly. "The same pride and dignity, the same indecible assurance that I had responded to his first appeal, when in her face."

"My first thought was a great thankfulness," she said simply. "I thankfulness that you—that no man—could ever understand."

CHAPTER XXIII

As she finished speaking Eve did not lower her eyes. In her there was no suggestion of shame in her thoughts or her words, but to Loder watching and listening there was a perplexing meaning contained in both.

"Thankfulness," he repeated slowly. From his newly stirred sense of responsibility and sympathy were gradually rising. He had never seen Eve as he saw her now, and his vision was all the clearer for the long obduracy. With a poignant sense of loss and passion and remorse the knowledge of her youth came to him—the youth that some women preserve in the midst of the world when circumstances have permitted them to see much but to experience little.

"Thankfulness," he said again incredulously.

A slight smile touched her lips. "Yes," she answered softly. "Thankfulness that my trust had been rightly placed."

She spoke simply and confidently, but the words struck Loder more deeply than any accusation. With a heavy sense of bitterness and remorse he moved slowly forward.

"Eve," he said very gently. "You don't know what you say."

She had lowered her eyes as he came toward her. Now she lit them in a swift upward glance. It seemed to him that she had altered the room a slight look of personal doubt and uneasiness showed in her face. "Why?" she said. "I—I don't understand."

For a moment he answered nothing. He had found his first explanation over his shoulder. Now suddenly it seemed to him that his present dilemma was more impossible to surmount. "I came here tonight to tell you something," he began at last. "But so far I have only said half."

"Half?"

"Yes, half. He opened the word quickly, avoiding the question in her eyes. Then conscious of the need for explanation, he plunged into rapid speech.

"A fraud like mine," he said, "has only one safeguard, one justification, a hundredfold advantage. One shake the audacity, and the whole motive power crumbles. It was to make the audacity impossible—to tell you the truth and make it impossible—that I came to you tonight. The fact that you already knew made the telling easier, but it altered nothing."

Eve raised her head, but he went resolutely on.

"Tonight," he said, "I have seen into my own life into my own mind, and my ideas have been very roughly shaken on into new places."

"We never make so colossal a mistake as when we imagine that we know ourselves. Months ago when your husband first proposed this scheme to me, I was according to my own conception, a solitary being, vastly lit up by fate, who with a true stoicism, was leading a clean life. That was what I believed, but there at the very out set I deceived myself. I was simply a man who shut himself in because he cherished a grudge against life and the life that he had chosen for himself."

"My first feeling when I saw your husband was one of self-righteous contempt and that has been my attitude all along. I have often marvelled at the flood of intolerance that has rushed into me at sight of him—the violent desire that has possessed me to look away from his weakness and banish the knowledge of it—but now I understand."

I know now what the feeling meant. The knowledge came to me tonight. It meant that I turned away from his weakness because deep in my heart something stirred in recognition of it. It meant that I was really much simpler than we like to think, and human impulses have an extraordinary fundamental connection. Weakness is a godsend, but so is strength. Chilcote has followed his side, I have followed my, a shadow on the wall, a light judgment that it will take a lighter judgment than yours or mine to say which of us has been the more selfish man. I have paused and looked at her.

She was watching him intently. Some of the meaning, it is true, had found a path, altered by a shadow on the wall, a light judgment that it will take a lighter judgment than yours or mine to say which of us has been the more selfish man. I have paused and looked at her.

which the misgivings born of Chilcote's vice had dropped away from her mental image of Loder was still too absorbing to be easily dominated. She loved and as if by a miracle her love had been justified. For the moment the justification was all sufficing. Some thing of confidence something of the innocence that comes not from ignorance of evil, but from a mind singularly unaccountably blinded her to the danger of her position.

Loder, waiting apprehensively for some old some expression of opinion became gradually conscious of this lack of realization. Moved by a fresh impulse he crossed the small space that divided them and caught her hand.

"I—I," he said gently. "I have been trying to analyze myself and give you the results, but I shall try any more I shall be quite plain with you."

From the first moment I took your husband a place I was ambitious. You unconsciously arose the feeling when you brought me Lillian's message on the first night. You aroused it by your words, but more strongly though more obscurely by your underlying attitude.

On that night though I did not know it I took up my position. I made my determination. I knew how what that decision was.

"Shook her head."

"It was the desire to stamp out Chilcote's footmarks with my own to prove that personally is the great force capable of everything. I forgot to reckon that when we draw largely upon fate we generally start a crushing influence."

"I first came the ship for your respect than the desire to stand well with such men as Lillian—to feel the stir of emulation and competition—to prove myself strong in the one career I knew myself fitted for. For a time I knew myself fitted for. For a time I knew myself fitted for. For a time I knew myself fitted for."

But the first was bound to react against itself and in a moment of egotism I conceived the notion of winning your enthusiasm as well as your respect."

Eve's face, alert and questioning suddenly paled as a doubt crossed her mind.

"Then it was only—to stand well with me?"

"I believed it was only the desire to stand well with you. I believed it until the night of my speech—if you can credit anything so absurd. Then on that night as I came up the stairs to the gallery and saw you standing there the blindness fell away and I knew that I loved you. As he said the last words he released her hands and turned aside, making the quick wave of joy and color that crossed her face."

"I knew it was only a difference. I was only moved to a higher self-glorification. I touched supremely that night. But as we drove home I experienced the strangest coincidence of my life. You remember the block in the traffic at Piquette?"

"Yes, I remember it very well."

"Well, when I looked out of the carriage window to discover its cause the first man I saw was—Chilcote."

He started slightly. This swift, unexpected linking of Chilcote's name with the most exalted moment of her life stirred her unpleasantly. Some gleam of Loder's intention in so linking it broke through the web of

DEMOCRATIC RING IS BUMPED, ITS CANDIDATES ARE DEFEATED.

D. F. Girard and F. O. Goodwin in Fourth and Tom Brannon and Frank Friel in Second Nominated for Council.

FRANK MILLER IS RENOMINATED

For Justice of the Peace on Republican Ticket, While Willis D. Colborn Defeated J. A. DeWitt by Over Fifty Votes on Democratic Ticket—Vote of the Borough in Detail.

From The Sunday Courier.
It is probable that the Democratic Ring never received a more crushing blow than that which came at the first primary election held under the new law yesterday. The Ring received as a pre-ent four nice, big, juicy lemons, in the shape of as many Independent Democratic candidates for Town Council, two each in the Second and Fourth Wards. The Ringsters are wondering how it all happened. In the Fourth Ward D. F. Girard and F. O. Goodwin were nominated, defeating the Ring candidates, Worth K. Balesley and Dr. James B. Woods, by an easy margin. This was where the worst jolt came in. Up until late in the afternoon it seemed that Colborn only had a show to "run well as best" and Girard appeared to have little better chance. As the day wore on, however, the Organization leaders began to sit up and take notice, and reports from the Fourth were far from encouraging. Before the polls closed Dr. Woods threw up the sponge and admitted his defeat, but Balesley did not give up hope of defeating Goodwin, if not Girard. Distress signals were sent up to the leaders, but eleven hours assistance was of no avail. Through an energetic canvass, both Girard and Goodwin secured enough votes to win the nomination. It was principally due to their efforts that the Democratic vote was so heavy in the Fourth.

In the Second Ward the Ring received another body blow, when Frank Friel and Thomas J. Brannon were nominated for Council over Walter Adams, Nicholas Hoyer, G. A. Snyder and W. R. Snyder. While the Democratic bosses were not especially favorable to Adams and Hoyer, at present representing that ward in Council, these two were preferred over Friel and Brannon because Adams and Hoyer had the Democratic organization against them. Now that the fight is over the bosses find themselves facing defeat on both sides. (They are beaten if the Republicans are elected to office, for the control of Council will pass from them, while if the Democratic candidates are elected the body will organize independent of them from the Third Ward. In all it was a sorry day for the Ring which is now in the last ditch.

The only contest on among the Republicans was for Justice of the Peace, Frank Miller, the incumbent, defeating Joseph Kutz by 24 votes. John Neesh was also a candidate, but was not in the running. He received 21 votes in the borough. On the Democratic ticket for Justice of the Peace W. D. Colborn defeated Jefferson DeWitt by 56 votes. The Democratic vote was light, although the Republicans did not poll near their voting strength. Colborn's strength in his party was a surprise since he is not long a resident of Conneltsville.

In the Second Ward the withdrawal of Thomas Evans and S. P. Hays gave the nomination to Rev. J. J. Huston and W. W. Smith without opposition. Some votes were cast for the former despite their withdrawal.

In the First 13 Democratic votes were cast. There were no contests except for Justice of the Peace. The First was the only ward carried by J. A. DeWitt. He got 11 votes.

The Prohibition vote was a complete surprise. In the First and Second Wards not a vote was cast for this party and in the Third Ward there was but one voter. In the Fourth Ward, the Prohibition stronghold, only seven voters turned out. Two of those voted for but one candidate, C. W. Bettler for Council. The Socialist vote also showed great falling off, although it was never large. In the First Ward three votes were cast; in the Second, two; in the Third, one; and in the Fourth, four, making a total of 10 votes for that party. This ran them into third place, losing out the Prohibitionists by two votes.

One of the surprises in the Second Ward was the victory of Robert W. Flattery for the nomination for School Director. It was reported that a good bit of money was being placed in the ward against Welsh, and both men made a hard fight for the nomination. Yesterday morning it appeared as though Welsh was lost. His excellent record on the Board stood him in good stead and to this can be attributed his success.

The Republican nomination for Justice of the Peace was in doubt until the last ward was heard from. Miller took a commanding lead from the start, with 96 to 32 in the First Ward. When the Third reported next, with 56 to 51 in his favor, it became apparent that Kutz must make heavy gains to win. The Second stood 32 to 44 in favor of Kutz and for a time it was thought that he would win on the strength of a big majority in his own ward, the Fourth. Although Kutz carried the Fourth Ward by a vote of 73 to 62, his majority was not sufficient to overcome Miller's lead.

Some fellow in the Third Ward tried to play the warden by voting for Moses Bridges for Auditor. He got his wires crossed, however, and voted for Joseph Bridges instead. J. Clyde Whiteley, who entered the race for Auditor at the last moment, made a good showing in spite of this handicap. W. R. Scott, the Democratic nominee, had practically no opposition.

COUNTY VOTE LIGHT.

There is Some Dissatisfaction Expressed Over the Working of the New Primary Law.

From The Sunday Courier.
The vote in the county at yesterday's primary generally was light. In Uniontown everything passed off quietly and there were few contests. Likewise did the elections go in Dunbar, Dawson and other towns in the county. Conneltsville had the most lively time of all.
There is some dissatisfaction expressed over the working of the new law. The loss of the inefficient voter has a hard time understanding the workings of the ballot and a large number of votes were cast on this account. This defect will be overcome after the primary has been held a few more times.

FAIR VOTE OUT IN NEW HAVEN.

Four Tickets Were in the Field Across the River Yesterday.

THOSE WHO WERE NOMINATED.

Candidates for Justice of the Peace: Squire Jacob Morgan on Republican Ticket and Providence Buttermore on Democratic Ticket Had No Opposition.

From The Sunday Courier.

There were four tickets in the field over in New Haven at the primary yesterday and nearly full tickets were nominated by the Republicans, Democrats, Citizens and Prohibitionists. A fairly good sized vote turned out, the total being 137, owing to the area interest being played over the outcome of the election.

Squire Jacob Morgan was renominated for Justice of the Peace, receiving 86 votes without opposition. For Inspector, R. C. Herbert got 90. For Council there is a tie between Frank Curtis and Cyrus M. Stoner, both receiving 31 votes. Jasper E. Johnson headed one Congressional nomination with 67 votes. Charles Weener, the fourth candidate, got 17. For School Director Charles J. Halsey got 81 and H. H. Boyd 50 votes. Theodore S. White was nominated for Auditor with 51 votes and 87 were cast for A. G. Fornwalt for Assessor. Squire Morgan got 107 votes for judge of election.

Candidates on the Democratic ticket were scarce. For Inspector of Election Frank Buttermore drew 29 votes and for Council Edgar Cyphers got 42 and Robt. A. Smith 25 votes. Providence Buttermore, who is also on the Citizens ticket, was given eight votes for Justice of the Peace. A. E. Wagner got three votes for Auditor.

The Citizens nominated a full ticket, with Providence Buttermore for Justice of the Peace at its head. For Council John Dugan was given 31 votes and Jasper Johnson A. McAdams was endorsed for School Director with 11 votes, and Solomon Lepley by the same number. William O. Whitman with 13 and Frank Buttermore within 10 votes, were nominated for Judge and Inspector of election.

The Prohibitionists were left behind but came along with a bunch of candidates. Holland Pierce got seven votes and the nomination for Judge of Election. Harry Reagan, two votes for Inspector; Ernest Martin and Cyrus Stoner each got two votes for Council; and Joseph Cochran received six votes for Assessor. Reagan two votes for School Director.

Any Overcoat in This Store $10

Three weeks ago we caused them all to "sit up and take notice," when we divided our immense stock of men's clothing into two sections and sold them at $15.00 and $10.00.

That sale reduced our stock over half in one short week. It left us with

Just 52 Overcoats that Regularly Sold at $12, $15, $16.50, $17.50, $18, $20 and $22.50.

Every one of these would have been sold in the last sale but for the fact that that sale ran but ten days, and when Wright-Metzler Co. advertise a ten-day sale they mean just that.

Every overcoat here is absolutely stylish in materials and tailored in the very latest manner.

Fifty-two overcoats without one thing wrong with them but this. There isn't every size at every price, but every size is here in one overcoat or another. The collection includes the French form-fitting models, paddock and loose-fitting coats. Choosing Wright-Metzler Co. overcoats at $10.00 regardless of former prices is bargain news of a brand new stamp, and every overcoat in this store will be sold before next Saturday night.

If your size is here and you care about saving from $2 to $12.50 on the purchase price of an overcoat, don't delay the buying.

Here's the Scale of Sizes:

Size	Size	Size	Size	Size	Size	Size	Size	Size	Size
34	35	36	37	38	39	40	42	44	46
6	8	10	12	14	16	18	20	22	24

WRIGHT-METZLER CO.

Boys' $10 Overcoats at $5.95

We're not going to say much about these overcoats, because every parent knows that our boys' overcoats are stylish and serviceable and that when we advertise a $10 overcoat at $5.95, it means a saving of $4.05 and not an exaggerated value.

Our entire collection of boys' overcoats are underpriced for this week's selling.

The stock comprises nearly every new overcoat fabric, and the fact that we pay as much attention to detail in our boys' clothing as we do to the perfection we demand in their fathers' clothes is sufficient guarantee of their fitness.

All overcoats that sold at $10 are now $5.95.
All overcoats that sold at $7.50 and $8.50 are now $5.95.
All overcoats that sold at $9 and $9.50 are now $5.95.
